

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editors of the ANALYST.

GENTLEMEN,—In reference to the criticisms by Messrs. Richmond and Boseley in your last number, on our method of titrating mixtures of milk-sugar and cane-sugar, kindly allow us a few words of explanation.

We do not object to criticism of the method ; what we do object to is the failure of these two gentlemen to see that the fluid recommended by us (ANALYST, x. 62) contained caustic soda and Rochelle salt, while the fluid they still contend as invalidating our results contained neither of these (ANALYST, vi. 218).

We are now content to leave the method to those who care to try it.—Yours faithfully,
ALF. W. STOKES.
R. BODMER.
